Dear Mr. Weisberg,

A few days ago, I bought and read your book "Whitewash". May I say I have seldom read a more engrossing book? (And I read quite a lot.)

I heartily commend you for your courage in writing it and for seeing it finally published.

Congratulations also to Dell Publishers who had the integrity to publish it.

Perhaps, as you say in your preface to the book, it is the least desirable form of appearance for the book, but maybe not too! There are a great many people in this country who couldn't afford a hard bound covered book that can afford a paperback.

You have voiced many peoples questions and brought them out in the open. Surely something will be done about them, maybe we could still call this a free country. I wish your book were in every home in the country and some foreign ones too.

Regarding the book dedication, my forebears also fought in the Revolutionary Wars and several since for freedom. I should hate to think it in vain that such an important thing as finding the true details of a presidential assassination should be impeded because of suppression of the true facts.

Again, commendations on an eye opening, conscience stirring book. If only there were more Harold Weisbergs and Jim Garrisons!

Sincerely yours,

(Mrs.) David F. Trose, Sr.
